Hi Karen: Thanks for your email. I will put it on the Board's agenda on Dec. 12th for formal consideration. If it is a temporary measure I don't see a big issue(although I don't make the decisions!), but if you anticipate this needing to happen every year if the landlord intends to always store his boat here, you may need to consider a more permanent solution like an addition to the building. If there's any way to tuck the container behind the building that would be the best location, just in the least visible location. Feel free to give me a call with any questions, I've been out sick and am playing catch up with some deadlines, but am trying to answer all messages and take all possible calls. Thanks - Jen
